

The Education of Henry Adams: An Autobiography (Classic Reprint)

By Henry Adams

Forgotten Books. Paperback. Condition: New. 538 pages. Dimensions: 8.9in. x 6.0in. x 1.6in. This volume written in 1906 as a sequel to the same author's Mont-Saint-Michel and Chartres, was privately printed, in the number of one hundred copies, in 1906, and sent to the persons interested, for their assent, correction, or suggestion. The idea of the two books was thus explained at the end of Chapter XXIX: A young schoolboy could see that man as a force must be measured by motion from a fixed point. Psychology helped here by suggesting a unit the point of history when man held the highest idea of himself as a unit in a unified universe. Eight or ten years of study had led Adams to think he might use the century 1150-1250, expressed in Amiens Cathedral and the works of Thomas Aquinas, as the unit from which he might measure motion down to his own time, without assuming anything as true or untrue, except relation. The movement might be studied at once in philosophy and mechanics. Setting himself to the task, he began a volume which he mentally knew as Mont-Saint-Michel and Chartres: a study of...

Reviews

Definitely one of the better books we have possibly read. We have read through and I am certain that I am going to go back and study it once again yet again in the foreseeable future. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.
