Not illustrated. 1900 Excerpt: . . . the slope of the river for different stages of the lake: It will be seen from the above that the change of slope from the lake to the proposed site for regulating works and from the lake to the gorge in the head of the river varies with the theoretical head necessary to produce the velocity of flow at the respective sections, and that the amount of fall necessary to overcome friction and maintain the flow is practically constant within the limits under consideration. With the proposed regulating works in place, the mean velocity of flow for maximum discharge through the works will be 6.4 feet per second, and, since the velocity at the gorge will always exceed that at the regulating works, the amount of additional resistance to be overcome after regulation is effected will be simply that due to maintaining the flow through...
